The Return of

The Ancient Mariner

An historic ship is coming to South Wales this May. Students and the public now have the opportunity to visit the ship. There is no charge for this activity.

Visitors can board the vessel to experience life on the decks of a medieval sailing ship, and learn about the one of the greatest poems in the English language The Rime of The Ancient Mariner and its connection to Wales.

The ship represents our amazing human capacity to care for the natural world and each other, and challenges us to work together. It celebrates Wales's leading role in world sustainability and the Welsh Government's Future Generations vision.

This opportunity is part of a summer Coleridge in Wales adventure that explores hidden Welsh treasure and celebrates local communities, imagination, spirit, landscape and hospitality.

To mark the ship's arrival The National Museum of Wales in Cardiff are displaying engravings of 'The Rime of The Ancient Mariner' by the leading Welsh poet and artist David Jones. It is possible for schools to visit the National Museum and see these illustrations. In Swansea there is collaboration between UWTSO and Swansea City Council.

Educational themes for a visit to the ship include:

- global warming and Wales's vision for sustainable societies
- Coleridge's poem 'The Rime of The Ancient Mariner'
- South Wales, ports and the sea
- the albatross and endangered species
- Coleridge's contribution to British ideas about the human spirit
- our creative, aesthetic, imaginative capacities and vibrant social economies / communities

Educational resource packs will be available. For further information or to request to take part please email sam@coleridgeinwales.cymru or phone 07974 39 7771.
